Bright spots included technology stocks which rallied, such as Infineon which raised its revenue and margin forecasts for the year on strong demand from electric cars and energy-transition trends in industry. Semiconductor equipment-makers ASML and VAT also rose. Freight forwarders DSV and Kuehne gained as some peers beat expectations, and NTG advanced on strong results and outlook. Performance was held back by the fund's financials positions such as Nordea which we believe is well capitalised and well-managed especially in terms of conservative lending. History shows that Nordea made minimal bad loan losses in previous downturns. Allfunds slipped on fears that a proportion of its assets under administration could be linked to Credit Suisse clients, who may redeem. Teleperformance slipped on news that US senators were looking to ban TikTok in the US, however analysts estimate this represents a small proportion of revenues. Few transactions were performed.
